Women in Leadership

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Women in Sports

Female athletes are leveling the playing field, participating in sports at record highs.

Women Advocating for Women

Women in STEM

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Women of Color

Women of color have faced additional barriers due to racism, as well as gender discrimination. The Women's March of 2017 was a response to the election of a president who had been accused of sexual harassment and racism, and it was a call for women to stand up against these issues.

Partnerships

The Adécco Group is proud to partner with Girls Who Code, a non-profit organization that aims to inspire girls to pursue careers in technology and to provide them with the skills they need to succeed in the field. The partnership is focused on helping girls excel in math and computer science, and to ensure that they have the resources they need to take on leadership roles in the industry.

In 2007, Adecco USA and Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBE) together created the Women in the Workplace Program, which focuses on helping women promote and advance in the workplace. The program is designed to provide women with the tools and training they need to succeed in the workplace, and to help them advance their careers.

The Adécco Group is also a partner of the National Women's Business Council (NWBC), a non-profit organization that provides resources and support to women business owners and entrepreneurs.

The Adécco Group is a member of the Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBE), which is an organization that promotes and supports the growth of women-owned businesses.

The Adécco Group is also a member of the National Women's Business Council (NWBC), a non-profit organization that provides resources and support to women business owners and entrepreneurs.

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Women in Sports

Female athletes are leveling the playing field, participating in sports at record highs.

Women in STEM

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Women of Color

Women have faced additional barriers due to racism, as well as gender discrimination. The Women's March of 2017 was a response to the election of a president who had been accused of sexual harassment and racism, and it was a call for women to stand up against these issues.

Partnerships

The Adécco Group is proud to partner with Girls Who Code, a non-profit organization that aims to inspire girls to pursue careers in technology and to provide them with the skills they need to succeed in the field. The partnership is focused on helping girls excel in math and computer science, and to ensure that they have the resources they need to take on leadership roles in the industry.

In 2007, Adecco USA and Women's Business Enterprise National Council (WBE) together created the Women in the Workplace Program, which focuses on helping women promote and advance in the workplace. The program is designed to provide women with the tools and training they need to succeed in the workplace, and to help them advance their careers.

The Adécco Group is also a partner of the National Women's Business Council (NWBC), a non-profit organization that provides resources and support to women business owners and entrepreneurs.

The Adécco Group is also a member of the National Women's Business Council (NWBC), a non-profit organization that provides resources and support to women business owners and entrepreneurs.

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.

Meet the Adécco Group

Women in Education

Women in the Workplace

Throughout the United States, women have fought for rights to compete on the same terms as men. The Women's Rights movement originated in the 19th century, with women such as Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony advocating for women's rights, equal pay, and suffrage.

Meet the Adécco Group

According to the Women in the Workplace report, women accounted for 23% of the workforce, with women occupying 25% of global leadership positions. This year, 66% of management has risen from 20% to almost 70%.